5. Discussion Notes

Agenda item / topic	Discussion notes
Nov 5 Urgent Deliverables	The team acknowledged the extreme time constraints. Three major deliverables are due : (1) Team Project Proposal (final compilation, review and ensure data accuracy); (2) Team Meeting Minutes; (3) Introductory Video.
Methodology & Data Analysis	The analysts discussed the code implementation and finalized the analytical framework based on the proposal. The core analysis window is fixed at January 2023 to December 2025 (36 months/12 quarters), excluding the pandemic years (2020-2022). The team will use Python to compute Pearson correlation for H1 and H2, and partial correlation for H3 (to isolate the association between hotel occupancy and bus ridership controlling for arrivals). Event analysis (Lunar New Year, Golden Week, etc.) will be conducted by comparing event weeks against the 36-month core window.
Data Visualization Strategy	The team discussed chart selection to ensure clarity. For RQ1 (synchrony), we agreed to use twin-axis line charts (with clearly labelled units to avoid misleading scales) to show co-movement. For RQ2 (seasonality), we will use quarterly boxplots to show spread across the four quarters, and KDE (Kernel Density Estimation) to compare overnight vs. same-day visitor distributions. All figures will use a colourblind-safe palette.
Task Allocation for Presentation	Two of us will co-lead the creation of the presentation PPT due next Wednesday (Nov 11). The other four members will focus entirely on running the data pipelines, generating required figures, and extracting statistical results to feed into the presentation.
Workload & Division	It was emphasized that while the presentation and video are being handled by specific members, the underlying data processing is highly intensive and distributed among the rest to ensure the analytical foundation is solid.

6. Decisions Made

No.	Decision	Reason / supporting evidence	Decision owner	Date agreed
1	Ray will independently produce the 5-min Introductory Video.	Clear ownership speeds up production.	All members	2026/11/04
2	XIAN QILAN and SONG ZHUOXI will produce the Presentation PPT.	Division of labor for the upcoming Nov 11 presentation submission.	All members	2026/11/04
3	The remaining 4 members (Vivi, Sonia, Lucas, Ray) will focus on data pipeline execution and EDA.	Ensures analytical depth while others handle documentation and presentation formatting.	All members	2026/11/04
4	Use a fixed 36-month window (2023-2025) and apply partial correlation for H3.	Excludes pandemic distortion (border policy); partial correlation isolates the relationship between hotel and bus while controlling for arrivals.	All members	2026/11/04
5	Use twin-axis line charts, quarterly boxplots, and KDE for final visualizations.	Matches the proposed visualization plan to show synchrony and seasonality without misleading the reader.	All members	2026/11/04
5	Each member must individually submit the Proposal, Minutes, and Video links by Nov 5, 23:00.	Course requirement; otherwise no score will be counted.	All members	2026/11/04
